

A Career in Health Administration

Help manage Australia's healthcare system and promote a healthier community

What is Health Administration?

Health Administration is the field relating to the leadership, management, and administration of public health systems, healthcare systems, hospitals and hospital networks. With predicted trends for increased demand of qualified healthcare professionals in Australia, there has never been a better time to become a qualified health administrator.

What does a Health Administrator do?

Health Administrators work to lead and manage healthcare systems such as hospitals or private practices. They work closely with other healthcare professionals in a range of settings to ensure that patients receive the best possible care. They also administer programs that teach healthy lifestyle habits and preventions of disease and illness, in the hopes of promoting a healthier overall community.

Who will I work with?

Doctors

Specialists

Nurses

Multidisciplinary Practices

Where will I work?

Hospitals

Private Medical Practices

Community Health Centres

Mental Health Services

Care Homes

Pharmaceutical Companies

Universities

So how do I get there?

With a Certificate III, or IV in Health Administration from Health Industry Training you will learn communication skills, medical terminology and team effectiveness techniques which will help you perform to the best of your ability as a Health Administration Worker.

Health Industry Training

Nationally Recognised Qualifications

Flexible Study Options

Fee Assistance Programs

Talk to an advisor 1300 381 415

Inspiring students to achieve!